The Murder Club The brilliant second instalment in the compelling new series to rival Rumpole and Rake - from one of our leading legal minds, QC Stuart Littlemore. The renegade barrister (and his elegant partner, Arabella Engineer) return with another series of spanner-in-the-works criminal trials, every one of them in defence of clients charged with murder. Meet the multiple murderer seeking a discounted sentence because he confesses to killings about which the police are clueless. Pity the fisherman who hated the sea, driven to let loose at his landlord with a rifle, plugging him ten times. And share the sadness of a shaken-baby case, where Harry, ever the iconoclast, takes on the conventional wisdom of self-serving medical experts.

Stuart Littlemore QC is an Australian barrister and former journalist and television presenter. He is best known for his time as writer and host of the ABC's MEDIA WATCH program, which he presented from its inception in 1989 to 1997. Following MEDIA WATCH, he had a short-running discussion program, LITTLEMORE (2001). He published a book about his media experiences entitled THE MEDIA AND ME in 1996.
